

Adoniram built a worship house called zayat where he preached and shared the Gospel. It was opened daily for anyone who was willing to come and listen to the word of God. Adoniram was overjoyed when the first man gave himself to be baptized.

---

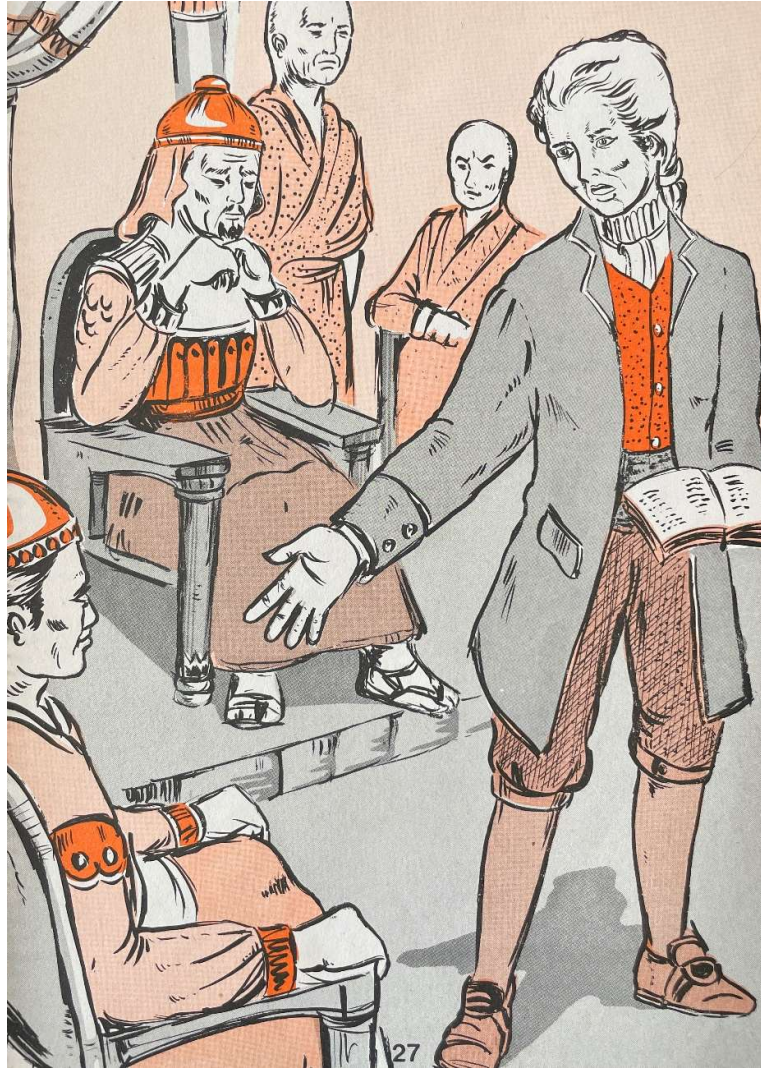

Not everyone in Myanmar was as braved, many were scared to accept Jesus and proclaim as Christian publicly. There was no other religions nor beliefs allowed to be taught in Myanmar, except for Buddhism. Violation would well lead to death.

---

Adoniram was always worried for those who had accepted Jesus and proclaimed their faith. So he made a trip to Ava to meet the King to seek a permission to preach the Gospel freely in Myanmar. The King threw the Bible that Adoniram gave him as a gift and ignored his request.

---

God sent another missionary to Myanmar to open the way, Dr. Price. The King asked Dr. Price to come to see him and Adoniram went to be his translator. This gave Adoniram an opportunity to share the Gospel in and around the palace. Eventually the King asked Adoniram to share the Gospel to him.

---